Indian Science Congress Association, Kolkata

The Indian Science Congress Association (ISCA) owes its origin to the foresight and initiative of two British Chemists, namely, Professor J. L. Simonsen and Professor P. S. MacMahon. It was their view that scientific research in India would be stimulated if an annual meeting of research workers somewhat on the lines of the British Association for the Advancement of Science could be arranged. ISCA is a well known registered society and has grown into a strong fraternity with more than forty thousand members till date. One of the major objectives of the ISCA is to indicate the scientific temper among the people and to encourage young scientists to grow up steadily in this direction involving them in the programmes relevant to fundamental, experimental and operational activities. With these objectives in view, ISCA started Chapters from 1986-87 in different places in India. At present twenty nine ISCA Chapters are active all over the country.

About the Conference

Biodiversity is the most complex and important feature of our planet without which life won't sustain. Nature is diminishing globally at unprecedented rates over the last few decades. The population size of mammals, birds, fish, amphibians and reptiles have been disproportionately declining since 1970. It is an absolute fact that from ecosystem-based approaches to climate and nature-based solutions to climate, health issues, food and water security and sustainable livelihoods, biodiversity is the foundation upon which we can bring back better.

The main objective of the conference is to provide a platform for academicians, scientists, researchers, professionals and students to present and discuss their research work and innovative outcomes in the field of Biodiversity and Wildlife Conservation. This will glean the latest innovations and technology towards conserving, sustaining and managing the healthy environment. The conference will also associate several outstanding scientists from different parts of India for sharing their findings with young researchers and to establish relationship with each other for future collaboration. The expected outcome of the conference would be the young enriched minds ready to step towards the biodiversity conservation.

Conference Topics

The focus of the conference will be on Biodiversity and Wildlife Conservation through Tribes of India and related issues like

- Environmental Resources and Management
